THE MAGNET
1960

In 1888, high school pupils occupied the third floor of the Jefferson Street School. Classes were moved to the McKean Street School Annex in 1901 and to what is now known as the Junior High School in 1907 where there were four teachers and 134 pupils in grades nine through twelve. The doors of the present Senior High School building were opened for classes in 1917.

During the last sixty years, the field of education has changed and broadened, and Butler High School has moved along with the times, providing a larger school, more and better equipment, broader curricula, and extensive extra-curricular activities.

The year 1960 shows the present North Street Building housing 2164 pupils, grades ten through twelve, with seventy-seven teachers and three administrators to direct their work and activities.

In fact, the ever-increasing high school growth and enrollment has necessitated the construction of a new and larger building which will be ready for classes in September.

In the pages of the 1960 yearbook, the Magnet Staff has endeavored to portray the work, the scenes, and the traditions which the present student body will always associate with the "old red brick" and its crowded interior.

World History is made interesting with exhibits of clothing and pictures from other countries. The students themselves contribute many articles for displays. In this way, the pupils study their own heritage as well as that of other people.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Bob Dixon questions the authenticity of a statement made by a member of this panel discussion group in Strategic Areas of Geography (SAG to the students). They choose the areas they wish to study.

Panel groups like this one discuss the opportunities minority groups receive in America. These discussions are a vital part of sociology, the science of living with one's fellow man.

Many classes such as this one explain their material by the use of blackboards. Is this plane geometry student laughing for joy (he knows what he is doing), or is his laugh hysterial (he didn't study last night)?

Where does all the money go? These applied math students can tell you because keeping a record of incoming and outgoing expenses is a part of their regular classroom work.

In the Spanish class, a little dancing is thrown in with the conjugations. What a scene, a pretty senorita, a handsome jaw (with hat), a happy chaperone, and a cool senor on the bongos.

This cross section of a French community may be a little more picturesque than some, but it does show us how this class thinks real Frenchmen ought to look.

Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet is vividly portrayed for the students in College English classes. Students achieve a better understanding of literature as it comes alive through visual aides.

Tenth grade English classses learn and find pleasure in making models of castles like those used in Ivanhoe. We can almost imagine Edgar Galgoczy saying, "An' the bloomin' guard stood right there, 'e did."

Skip Monks and Carol Souzer find that chemistry experiments may be enlightening in more than one way. All is a success so far; surely nothing will blow up and spoil the lab. At least it doesn't smell.

Seeing is believing. Biology students enjoy taking a look at what they are studying. A few sometimes hesitate to gaze upon the little creatures that swim in drinking water.

Sandy Hopper gains experience, credit, and pay as she "learns-on-the-job" at a Butler bank. She is one of a group of students placed in Butler business offices for one-half of each school day through the Co-op Program.

"Typing is fune wonce you get the hangjk ofjit." Typing students strive first for accuracy and then for speed, but they sometimes do just the reverse as is shown in this quotation that is seen in the typing rooms.

Neatness and accuracy, along with speed, are the basic requirements of a good bookkeeper and are stressed in bookkeeping class. The boss will be able to tell how much he is in the red from these books.

One, two cha-cha-cha! These FFA boys are very familiar with barnyard fowls like these "girls," but we'll bet they still haven't figured out which came first, the chicken or the egg.

It looks like almost every phase of home life is in orbit in this scene. Joyce Klingensmith doesn't seem to be having trouble keeping things under control. Actually, the cat is the real boss of this situation.

So this is where our budding assembly organists get their inspiration! Ann Bitner, one of the many who play for assemblies, firmly believes in the saying, "practice makes perfect."

Shirley,

Every time I do my necklace match next year, I'll think of you. You're the lucky one who won't be there. I've really enjoyed knowing you and I'm sure we've really had great times. Good luck to you, Shirley; I know you'll succeed - its inevitable.

Always,

Nancy

Row Four: Robb (manager), Deeb, Sommariva, Klann, Frenchak, Johnson, D'Antonio, C. Bowser, Rice (manager).

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The varsity football team completed the 1959-1960 season with five victories, three losses, and one tie. The record was made with an ironical symmetry, for the losses occurred every third game and the tie came in the middle of the season. The Tornado gained 1,807 yards as opposed to its opponents 1,190. Butler outscored the opponents 124 to 69. Wayne Swift and Bob Steighner were elected the most valuable players this season by their teammates. Swift received the award for the most valuable player in the backfield and Steighner for the line.

A pair of Butler High players halt the steaming drive of a Har-Brack player and drop him in his tracks.

Much of the success of the 1959-1960 football team must be attributed to the coaches Paul Uram, Walter Lonchena, Charles Croft, Emil Rosenzweig, and A. J. Capezzuti.

The managers James Robb (junior), John Rice (senior), Peter Cherry (junior), and Howard Hammonds (sophomore) are busy inspecting the football equipment before a big game.

Hard running and hard blocking, which were outstanding characteristics of the 1959-1960 football team, were displayed during the Ambridge game in which Butler defeated the Bridgers 12-0.

Butler High gridders take a break and a well-earned rest between grueling practice sessions at the athletic field.

Mr. Capezzuti expresses contradiction to the old adage, "Two heads are better than one," by taking on two Butler High gridders while demonstrating the arts of blocking.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Varsity Basketball Team won five games and lost seventeen for a .227 average. In the ten Section 1A games, however, the Golden Tornado came through with only a .200 average. The brightest spot in the record was the Kittanning game, when Butler walloped the Wildcats by a score of 78-48. This was a tremendous upset for the section champions. Bob Quigley, a junior, was the Tornado's high scorer with a total of 449, topping Wayne Swift who was second with 181. Bob sunk 161 out of 210 foul shots to top Bill Saul's record foul shooting percentage, .767 to .632.

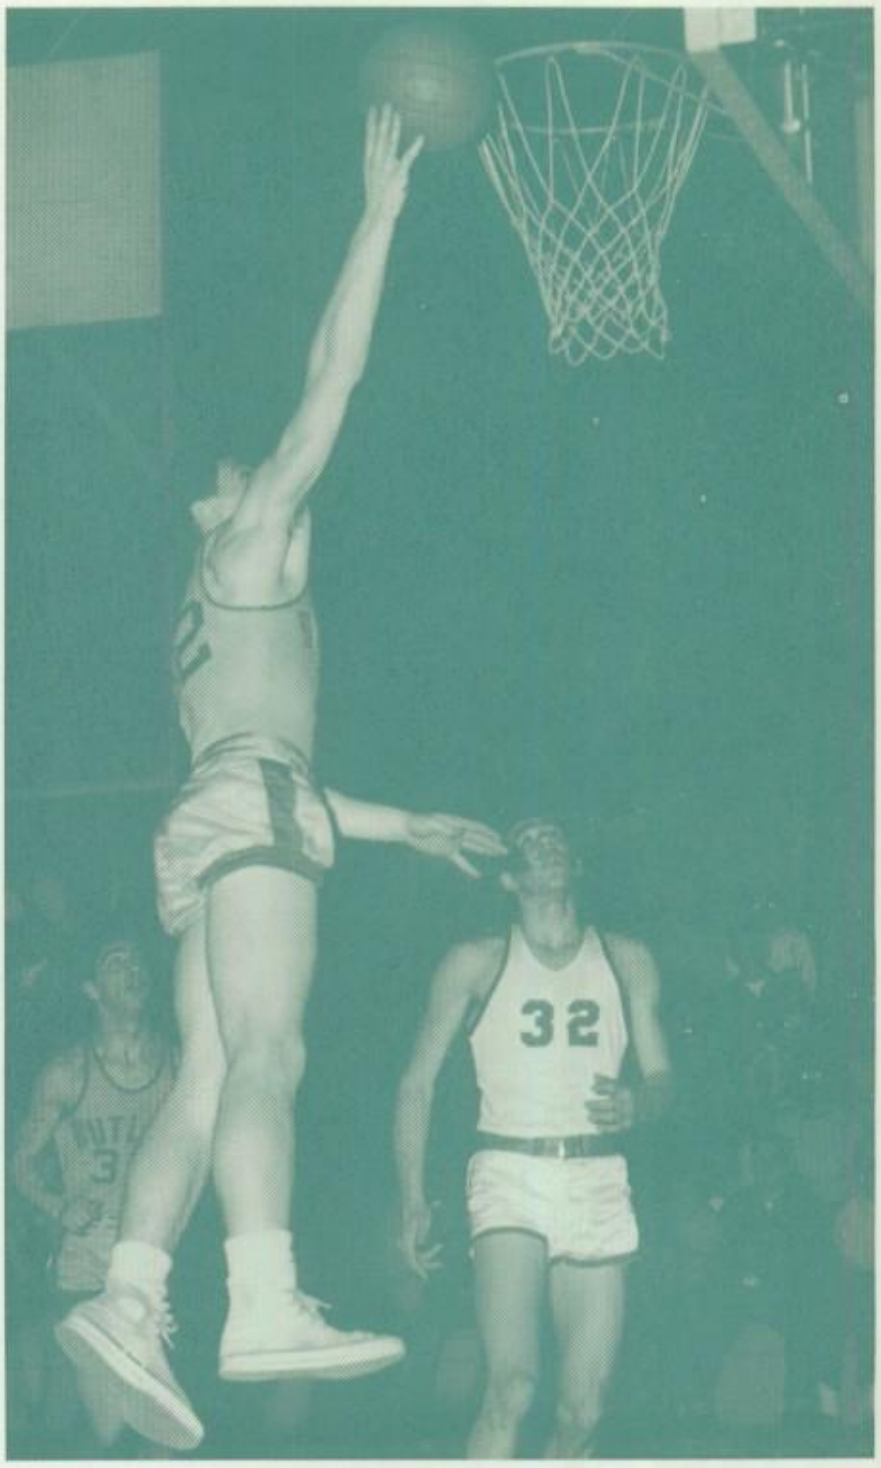
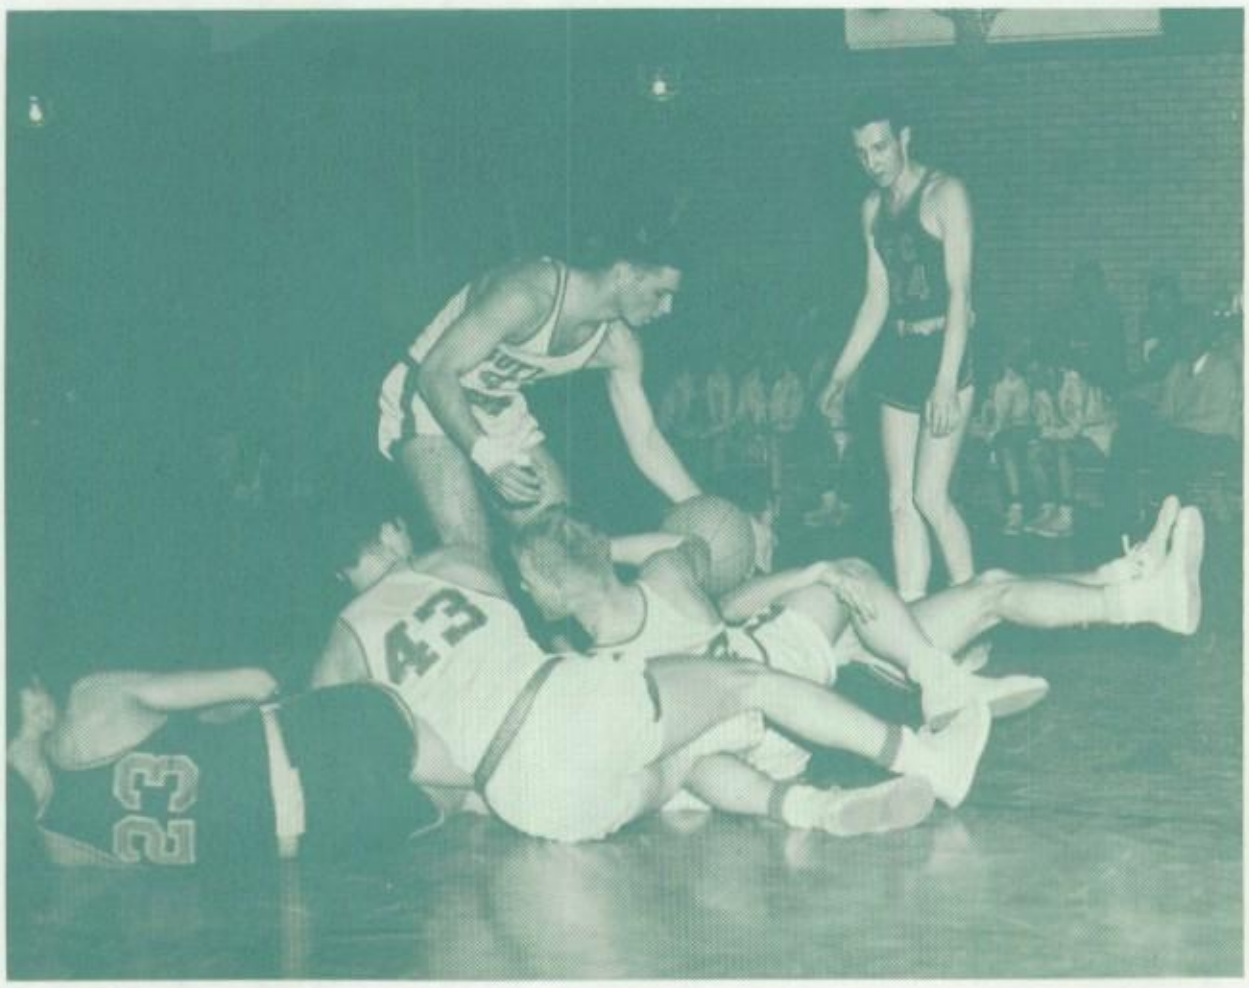
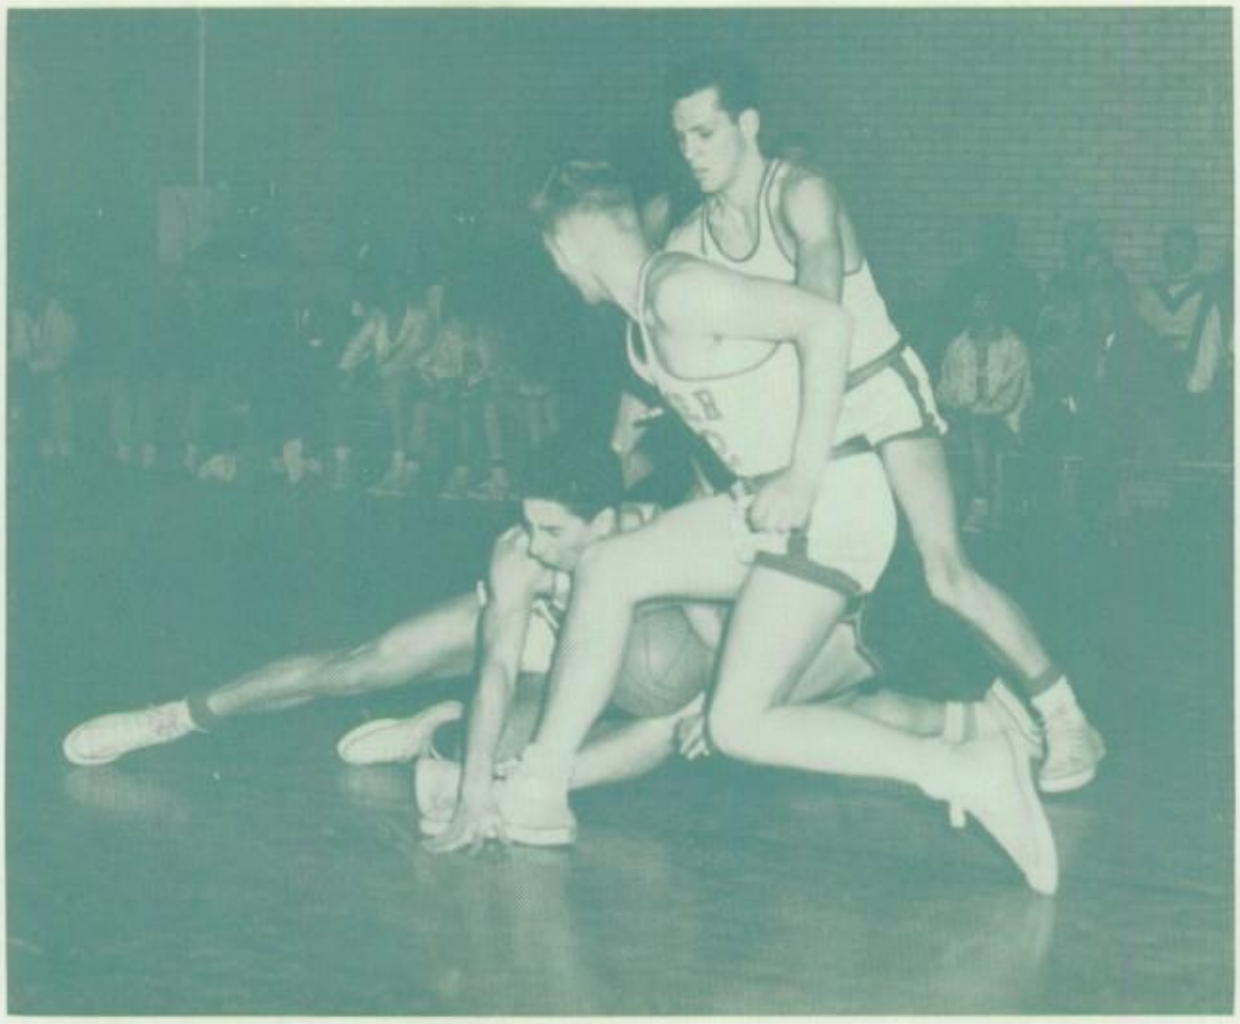
Ralph D'Antonio and a player from Ellwood City are performing a basketball ballet.



Wayne Swift goes up for a layup in the Elwood City game.

Rich Novak grabs ball as two Butler players and two opponents fight for it.

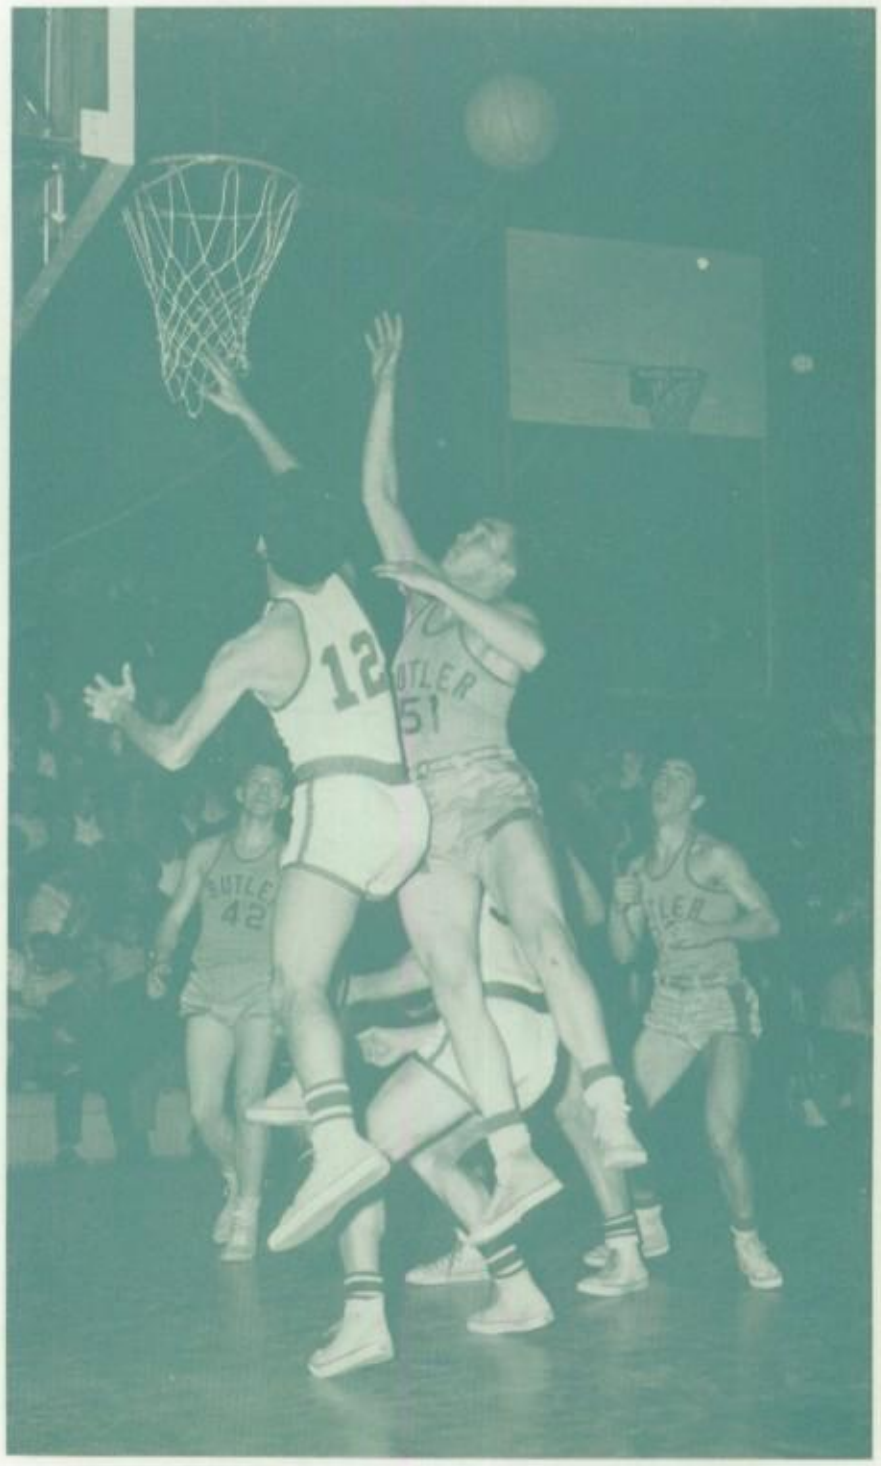


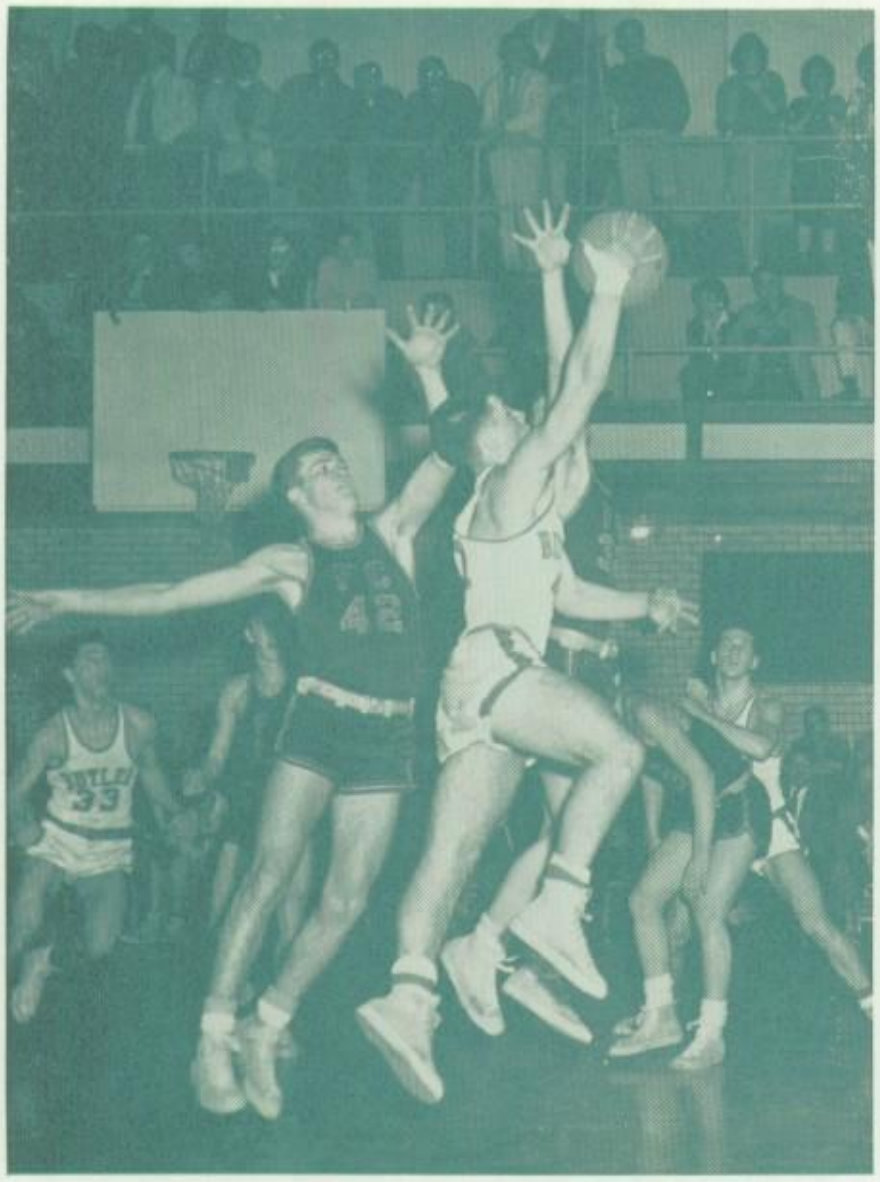


Dick Natili, Bob Quigley, and Ralph D'Antonio corral an opponent in an effort to get the ball.

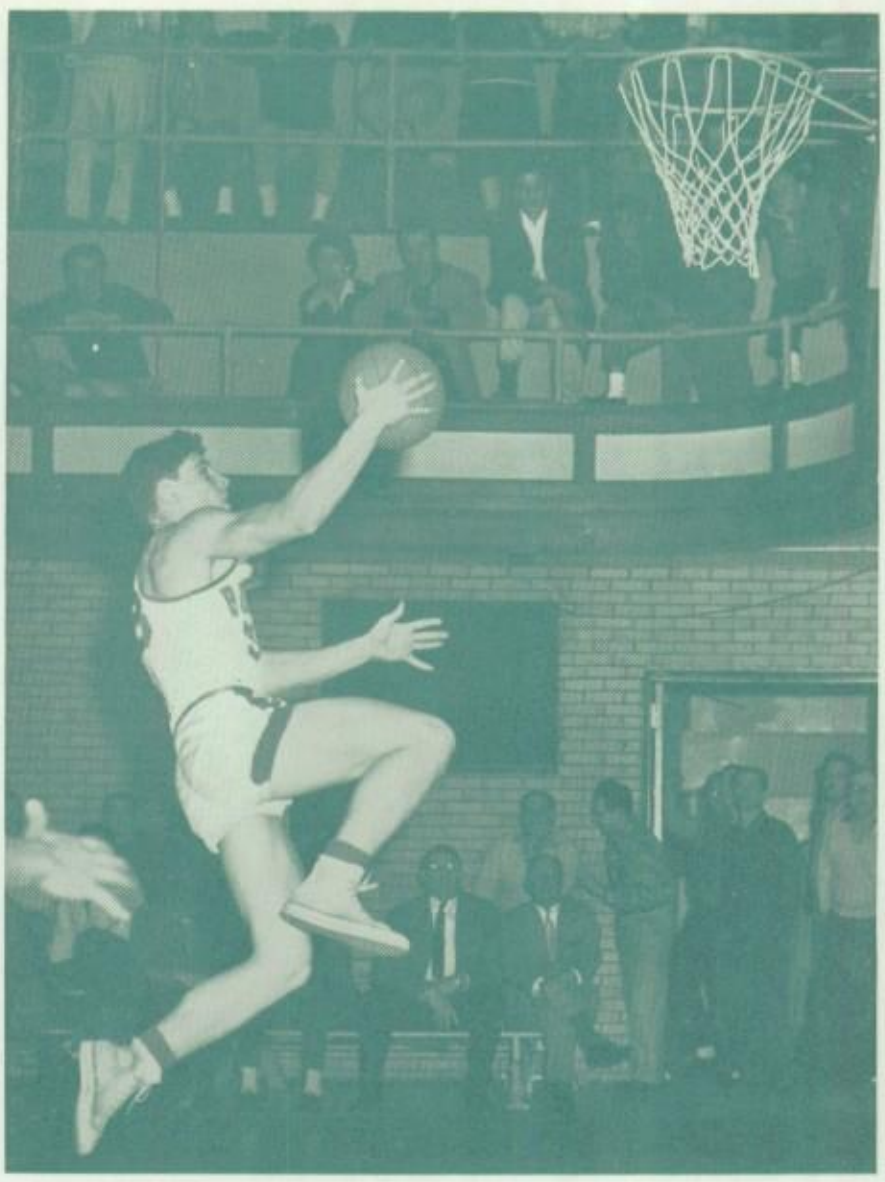
What's this? Wayne Swift doing the butterfly sequence of the basketball ballet.

Dropping into your hands, Mickey. Make it good! A real off the floor play.





Rich Novak drives through three opponents for a bunny shot. He made it!



Swifty earned his nickname with this kind of action. Beware the clutching hand!

Surely this is no time to sit down, Wayne. If you must rest, hand the ball to Quigley.

SWIMMING

The Tornado Tankers won eleven and lost two of the meets in which they participated. The two defeats were at the hands of the powerful Mount Lebanon team, the state champions. Art Lafferty, the team's co-captain, placed second in the 50-yard free style event at the state championships at Bucknell University. He was clocked at 24.0 seconds. The Tornado's medley relay team consisting of Terry Ray, Skip Shaffer, Kent McGlincy, and Art Lafferty placed fiifth in the state championships.

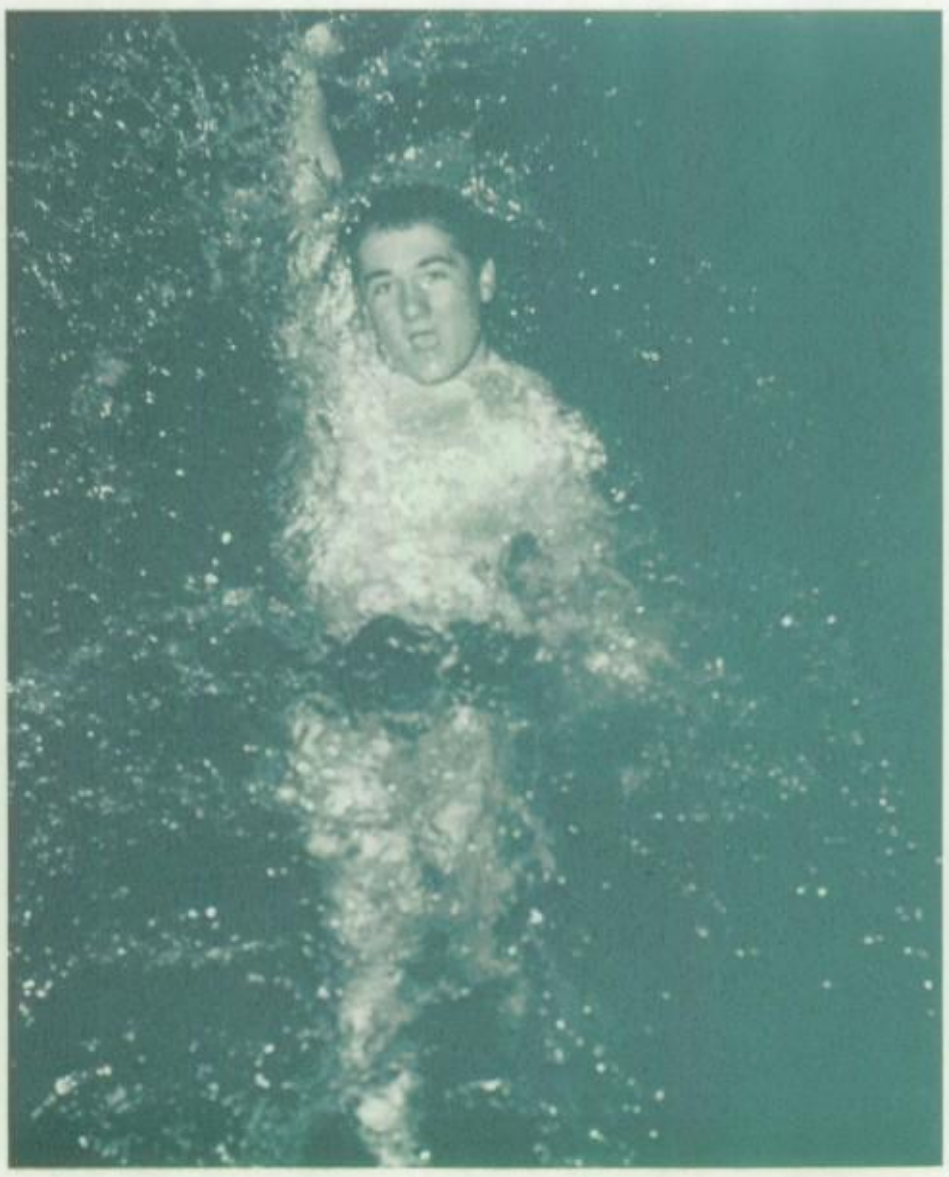
Art Lafferty has found some new form of underwater propulsion. We wonder what will happen when the air runs out.

If you want to be a swimmer like Kent McGlincy, practice about 80 hours before you compete. Of course, Kent has kept it up for about five years.



We are not sure the expression on Skip's face is part of the regular swimming routine but if it will help him win the race, all the better.

Gary Weitzel, Harry Graham, and Dave Hinchberger are making a dry run in preparation for an oncoming track meet. This sort of exercise is prominent in track workouts.

Art Coleman displays perfect form in leaping the low hurdles.

TRACK

Thirteen lettermen return to track this year. They are C. Bowser, R. Bowser, Coleman, Fedokovitz, Graham, Hinchberger, D. Natili, R. Natili, Reay, Rettig, Rudiak, Snyder, and Swift. The season started too late to get any scores in the Magnet.

POLE VAULTING—Ron Fedokovitz sails over the bar in graceful form.

SHOT PUT—Jim Rettig with a flick of his wrist can send the 12-pound shot to span great distances.

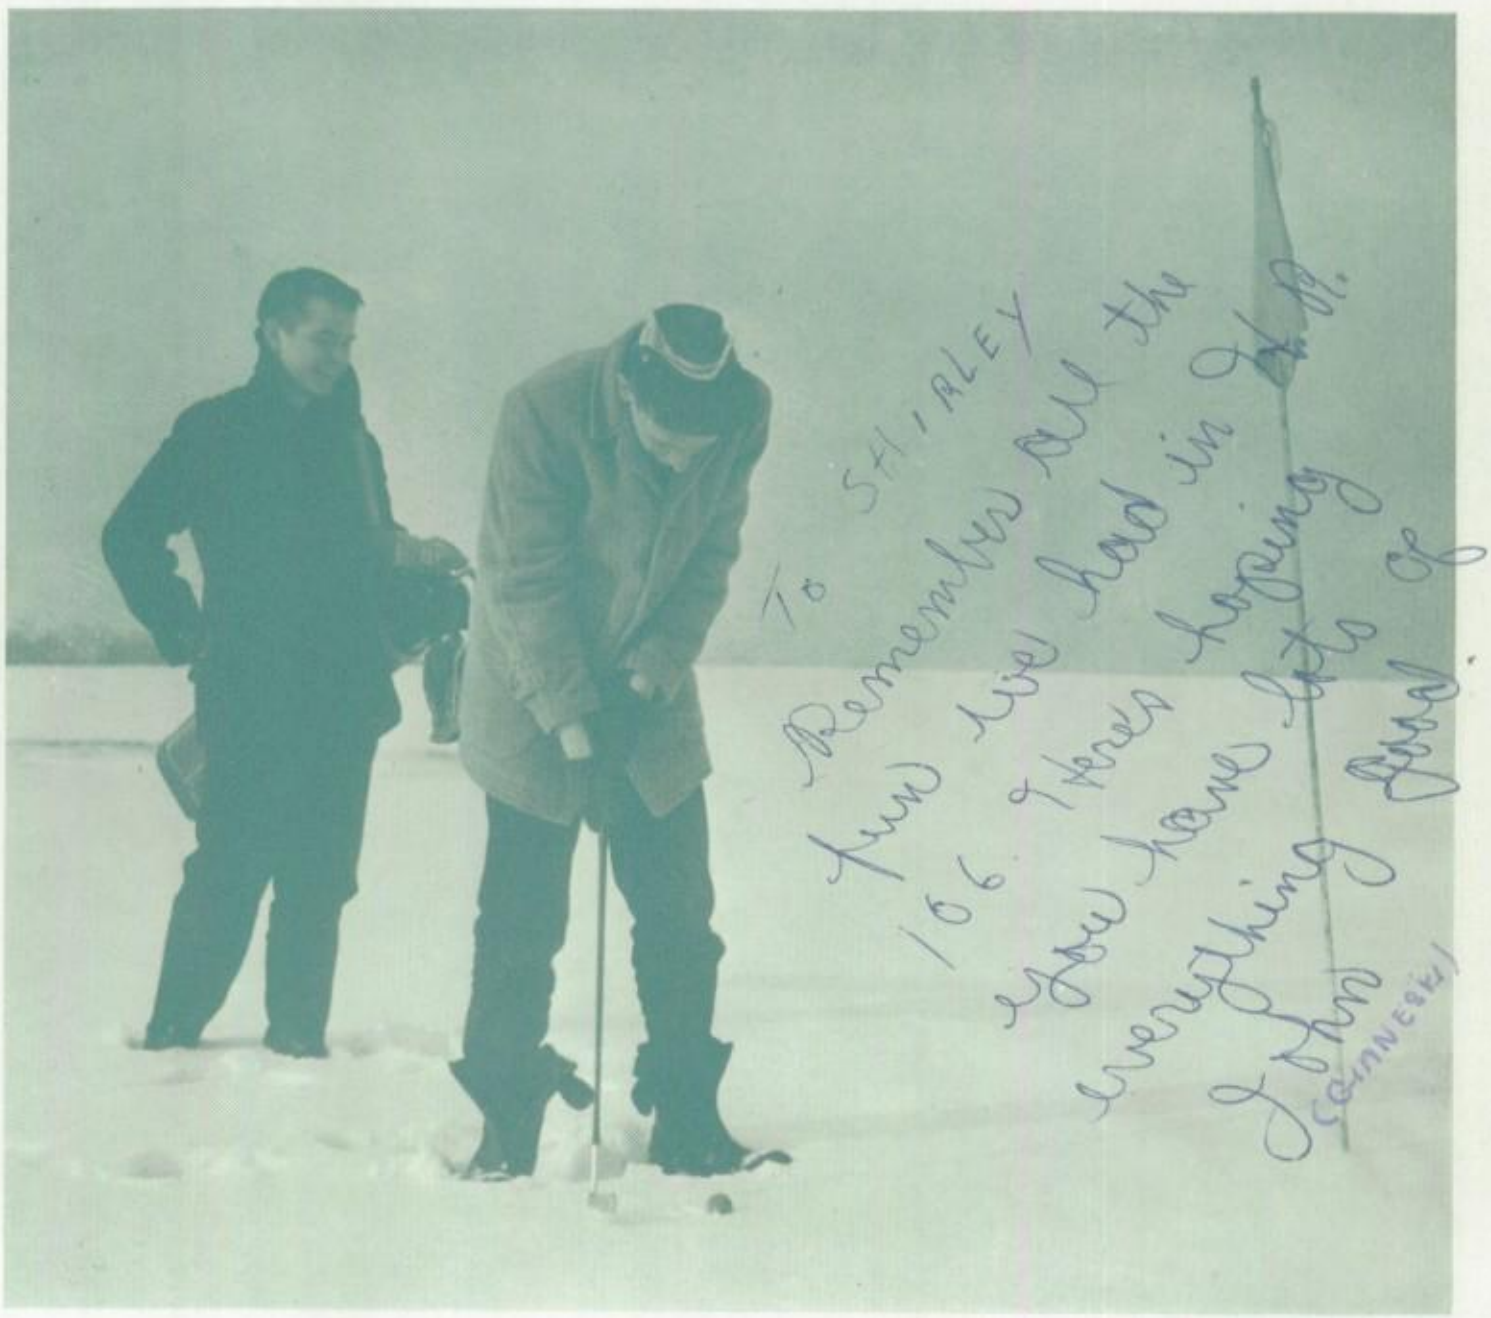
Roger and Ron are giving their full support to Dave Hinchberger who finishes the race in easy stride.

Jim Rettig is straining every muscle in his body to make a record broad jump. Rudder straight—flaps down—coming in for a 5-point landing!

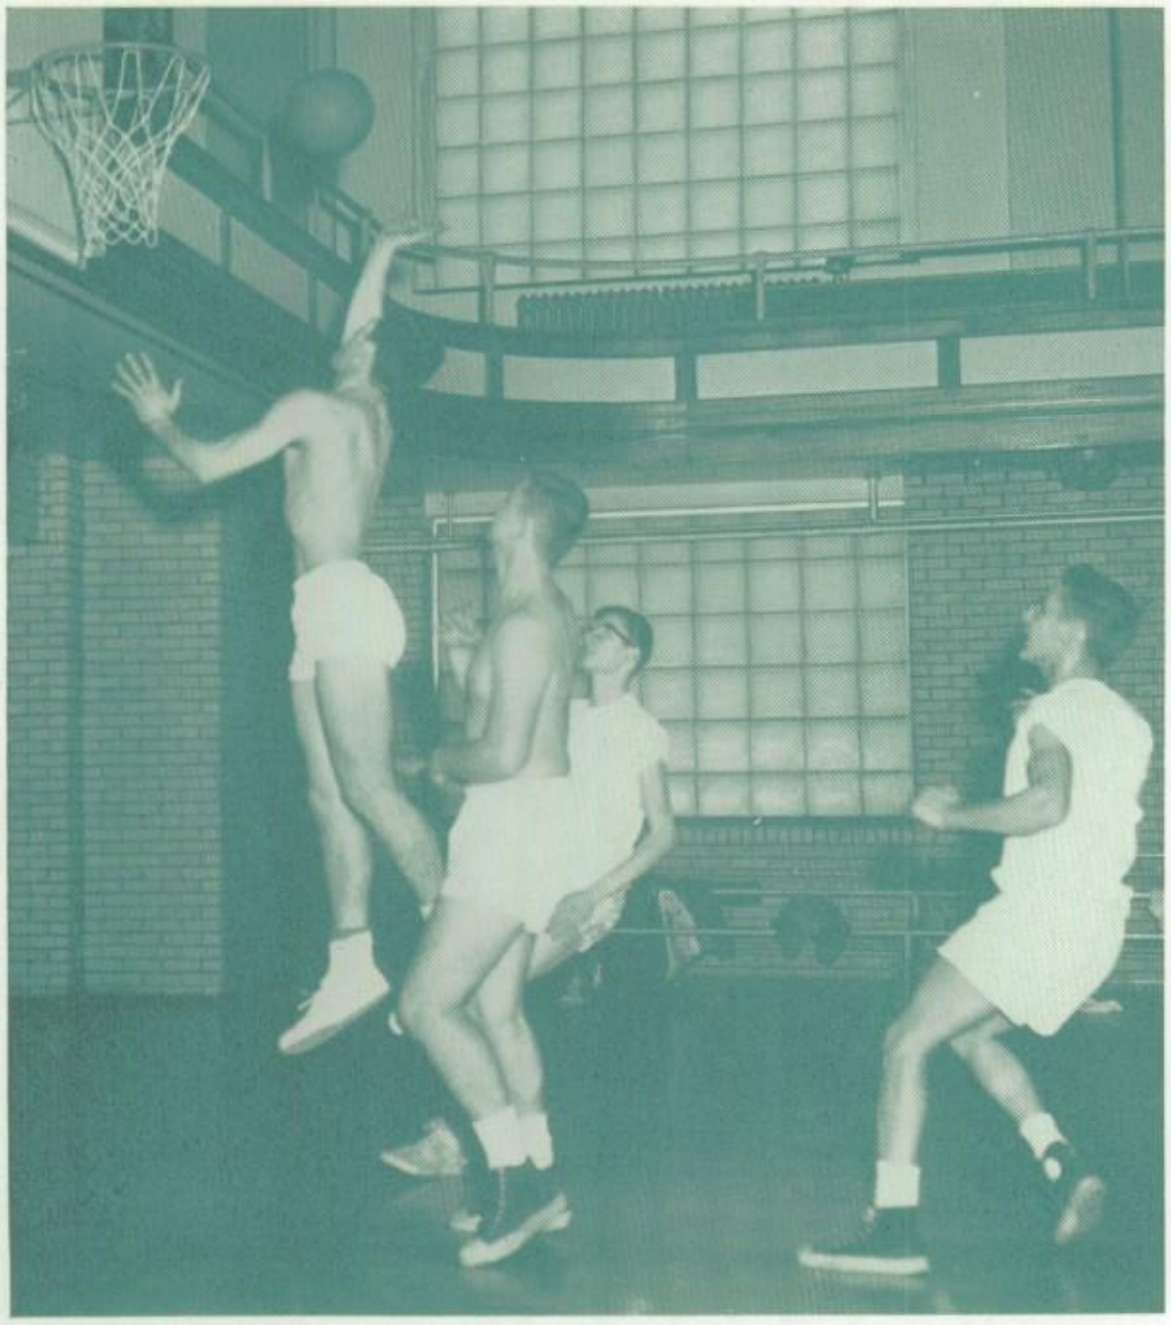
Calvin "Champ" Bowser is displaying the form, which, last year, helped him break the school record and qualify for state competition in hurling.

Dave Parks, Dave Phillips, Bob Murphy, and Bill Little dive off the side to participate in a race in the Intramural Swim Meet.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

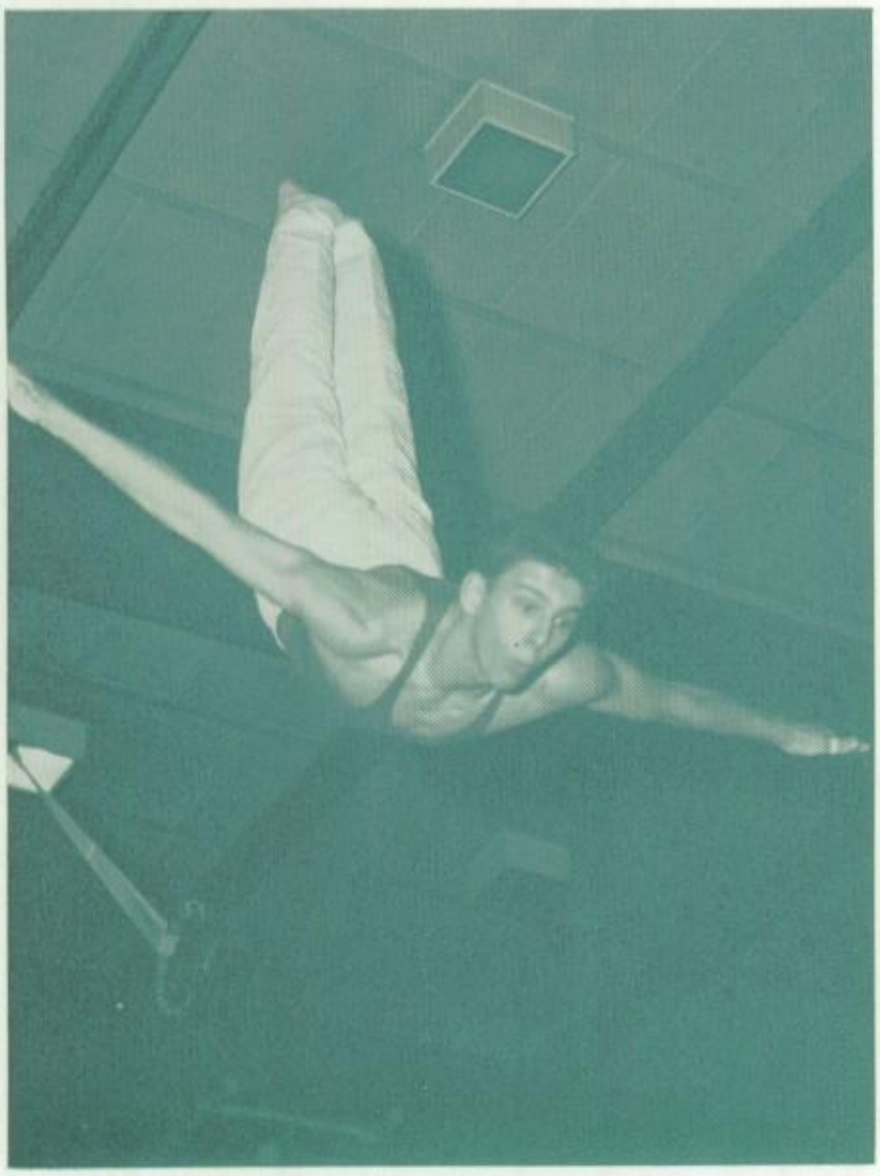


John Gianneschi and Tom Maksanty are a couple of over-enthusiastic Butler High School golfers who started out early to prepare for intramural golf.

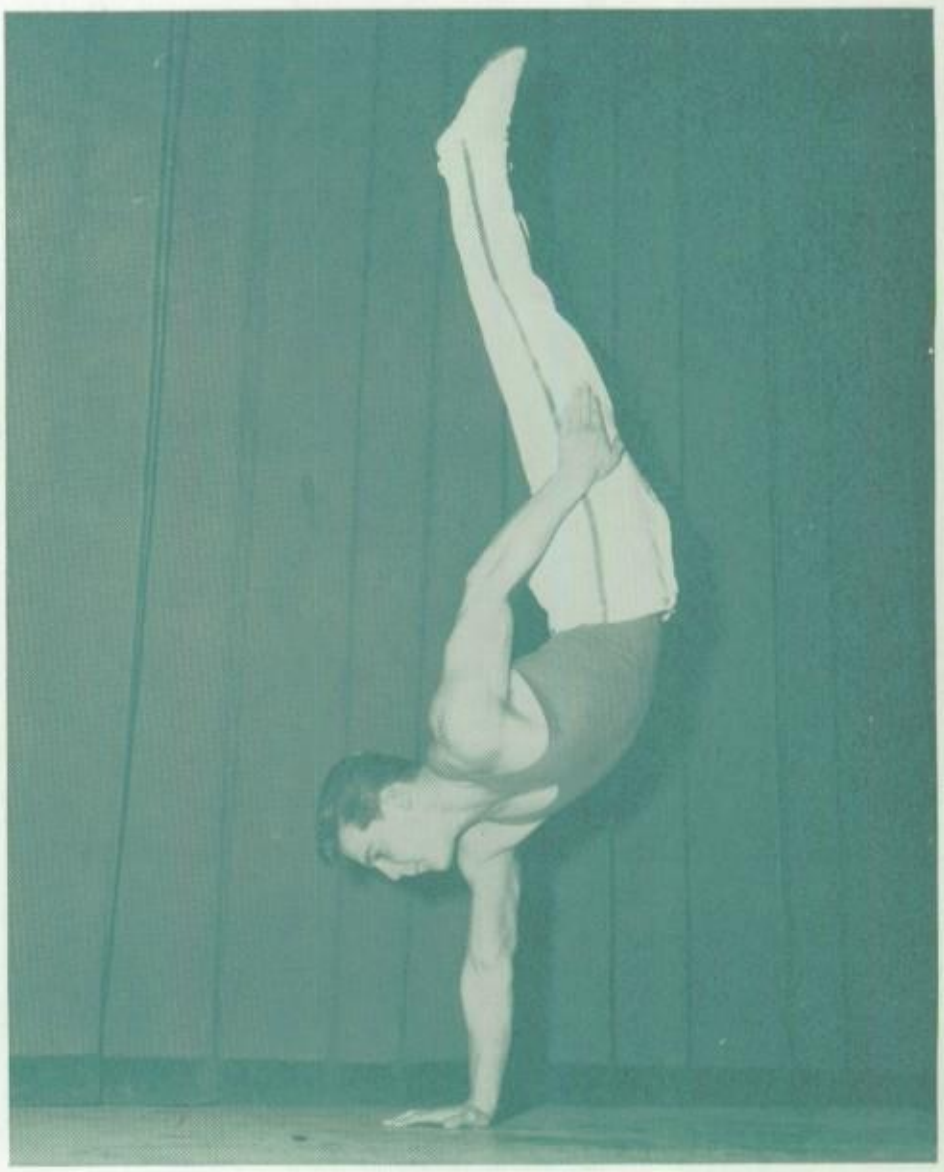


Rich Green hits for the Whippo AC's as teammate Bob Dixon looks on. Carl Nanni and Ricky Josephs of the Monarchs tried to prevent the scoring.

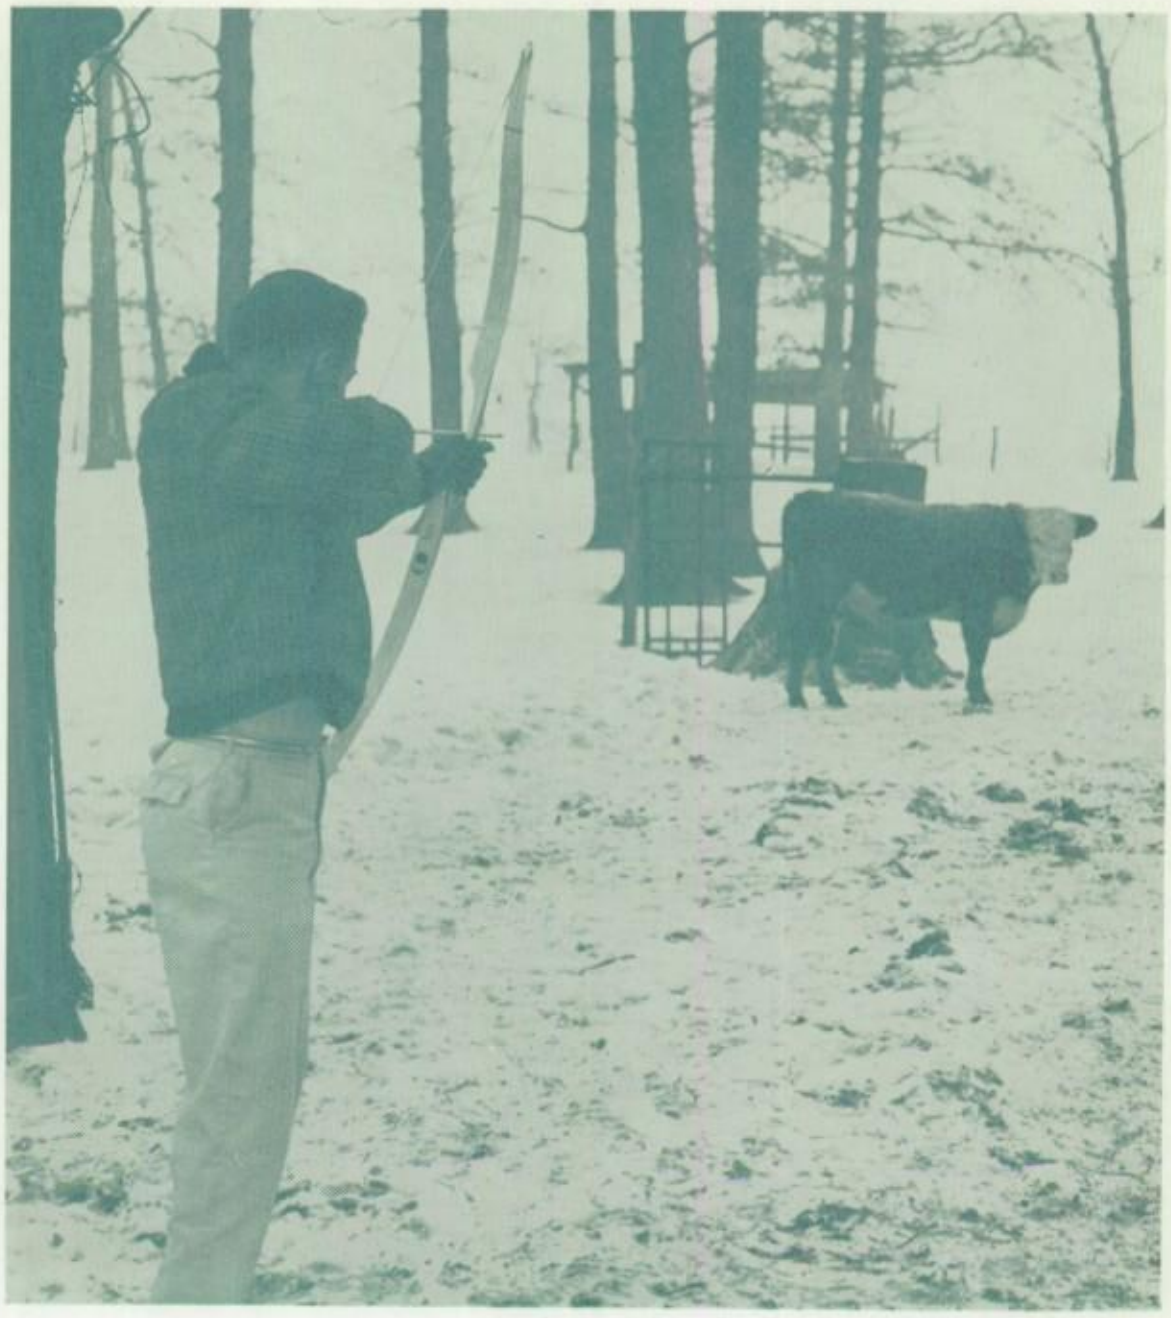
Ken Musko, of the Lyndora Gym Team, flies off the rings in a swan dive position.



Bill Erdos, displaying perfect muscular coordination and technique, does a one-arm handstand.



Carl Nanni, a confused Butler High archer, seems to have mistaken a bull for a buck.



Gary Shearer, Dave Craig, Joe Koerner, Dave Rudiak, and Don Fedokovitz are ready to begin their sharpshooting.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Each Wednesday evening shouts and cheers pour out of the BHS gym. The noise is part of the enthusiasm expressed by the girls who participate in the Girls' Athletic Association. GAA is in charge of the girls' intramural sports program. Any girl who participates in a sport is eligible for membership. Volleyball, basketball, ping-pong, tumbling, bowling, archery, and swimming are offered each year.

One GAA point is awarded to the members for each participation in an individual sports activity. Winners of team sports receive two points per game and losers receive one point per game. Team captains receive five extra points. GAA letters and wings are awarded to the girls who have accumulated 350 points and 150 points, respectively. The letters and wings are distributed at the annual spring picnic.

Officers are elected in the spring of each year. The candidates are nominated by the Executive Council, a group composed of the officers and sports managers of the association. The girls nominated for office must be active in the Girls' Athletic Association. The sports managers are chosen by the physical education teachers. The managers are responsible for keeping a record of the points accumulated by the members in one sport.

Annual GAA projects include selling gold football and basketball schedule pencils, selling gold pom-pons and the GAA dance. Valentine decorations marked the theme of this year's dance, "Cupid's Frolic."

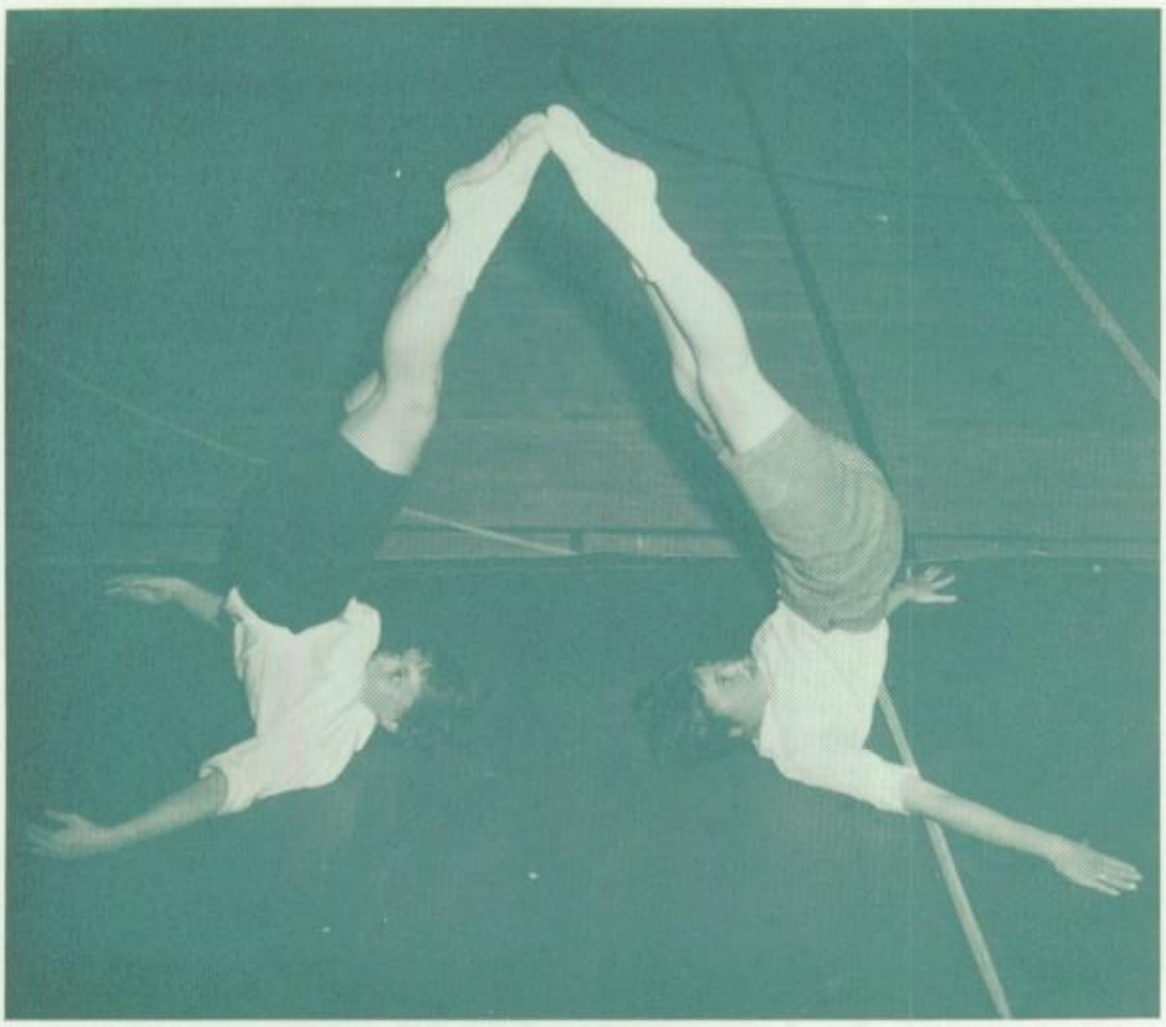
BOWLING

Good bowling form assures Kay and Marianne strikes. Each Tuesday and Thursday bowling teams compete for GAA championship at the Bowlaway Lanes.

Girls will have to develop more muscles for playing volleyball. A new rule outlawing double taps has been made this year.

VOLLEYBALL . . . SWIMMING

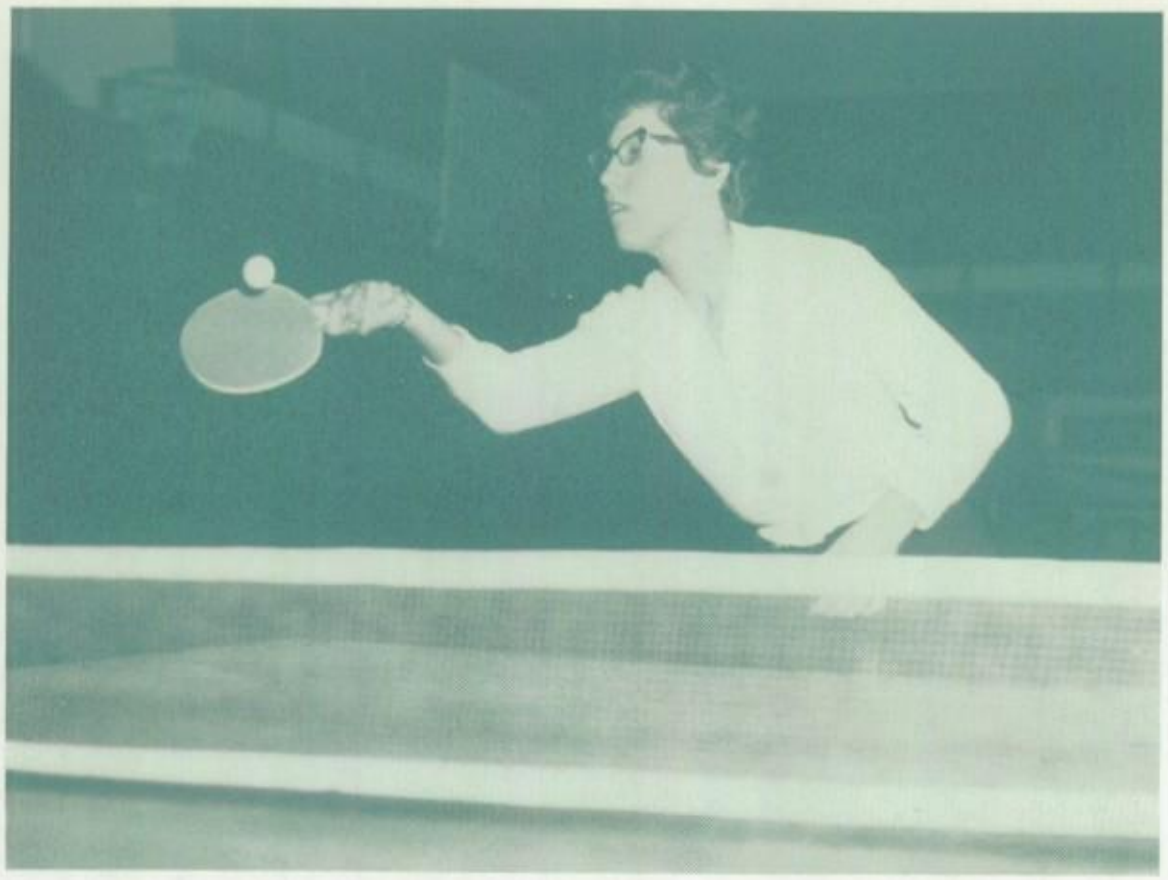
Ten, nine, eight—stand by for splash! The girls' swimming classes are taught the fundamentals of diving and swimming.



Is this a real-life valentine? No, it's just Janet and Sonia demonstrating one of their many tumbling skills.

TUMBLING . . . TRAMPOLINE

Whoops! A surprised Sheila Mack thumps onto the trampoline as her partner sails high into the air.



With a flick of her wrist, Mary Ann Russin is sure to add another point to her ping-pong score.

CONCERT

The Concert Choir nervously awaits performance time as they rehearse for the Christmas Concert at Thiel College.

The melodious strains of the fifty-three voice Concert Choir can be heard pouring forth from the auditorium every day during the fifth period. Under the direction of Dr. Richard Dryden, the choir has performed for the school and community as well as for out-of-town audiences. In December, the choir made a special trip to Thiel College in Greenville to perform for the annual Community Christmas Program. Among the various selections of the choir are the Pennsylvania Dutch folk song "Johnny Schmoker" and the traditional and sacred "Beautiful Saviour." The final program in which the choir participates is the Spring Concert in May.

Pictured at the right are the members of the Concert Choir who earned music letters this year. Row One: Jerry Blakeley, Susan Robb, Vivian Lee, Jean Love, David Campbell. Row Two: Frances Miller, Linda Goehring, Janice Hoffman. Row Three: Stephanie Steininger, Gail Gaddis, Sandra McMurry, Carol Whitmire. Row Four: Ted Heberling, Dave Frenchak, Roger McClean, Stan Smithtro. In order to receive a music letter, a student must have participated in a vocal group for three years in high school. In addition to this requirement, the student must have been a member of an ensemble consisting of not more than ten students.

CHOIR . . . .

The Concert Choir has a last-minute rehearsal before they go on stage to participate in the Christmas Concert.

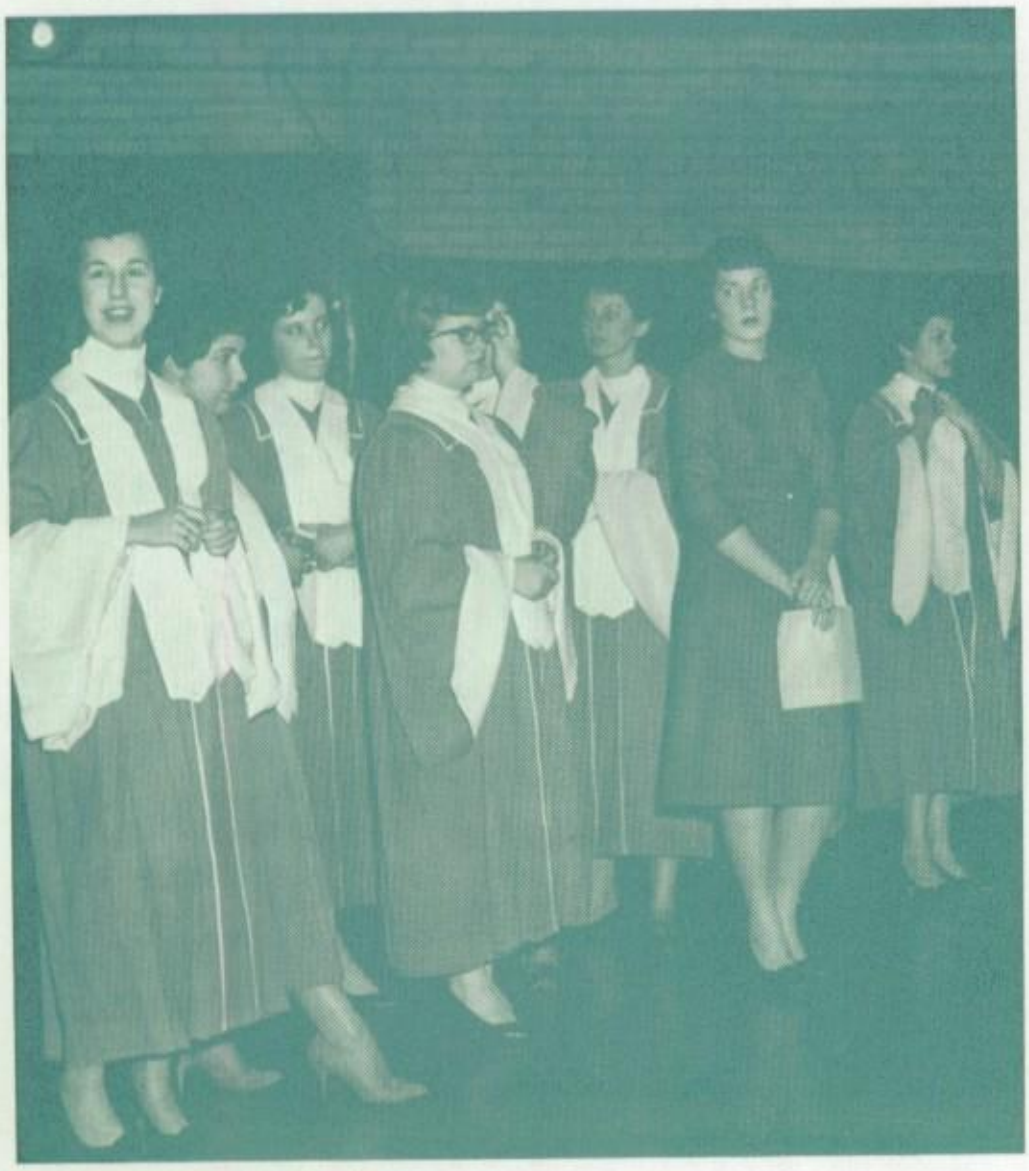
GIRLS CHORALE

The Girls Chorale practices in the auditorium during the second period every day. The practice usually begins with breathing and vocal exercises to insure good tone quality. The choir sings a variety of songs. Among the selections are those from "The King and I." This year in the Spring Concert, the Girls Chorale combined with the Concert Choir and the Junior Choir to sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Gloria in Excelsis."

Members of the Girls Chorale attend the practice session in the gym before presentation of the Christmas Concert, as Jane Shumaker, narrator for the program, looks on.



"Who put the dot after that eighth note?" asks puzzled Sonia as the Girls Ensemble diligently rehearses.

The expression on Bill Parker's face shows the stress and strain of long, tedious practices of the Boys Ensemble.

We can't blame the members of the Girls Ensemble for looking rather blue. After all, it is the first period in the morning!

Every day during the sixth period Patricia Piroch, Mickey Streitman, Jill Guthrie, and Janet Rosenzweig, members of the yearbook staff, worked hard to size pictures, write captions, and to finish all the necessary details to get the yearbook to press before the deadline.

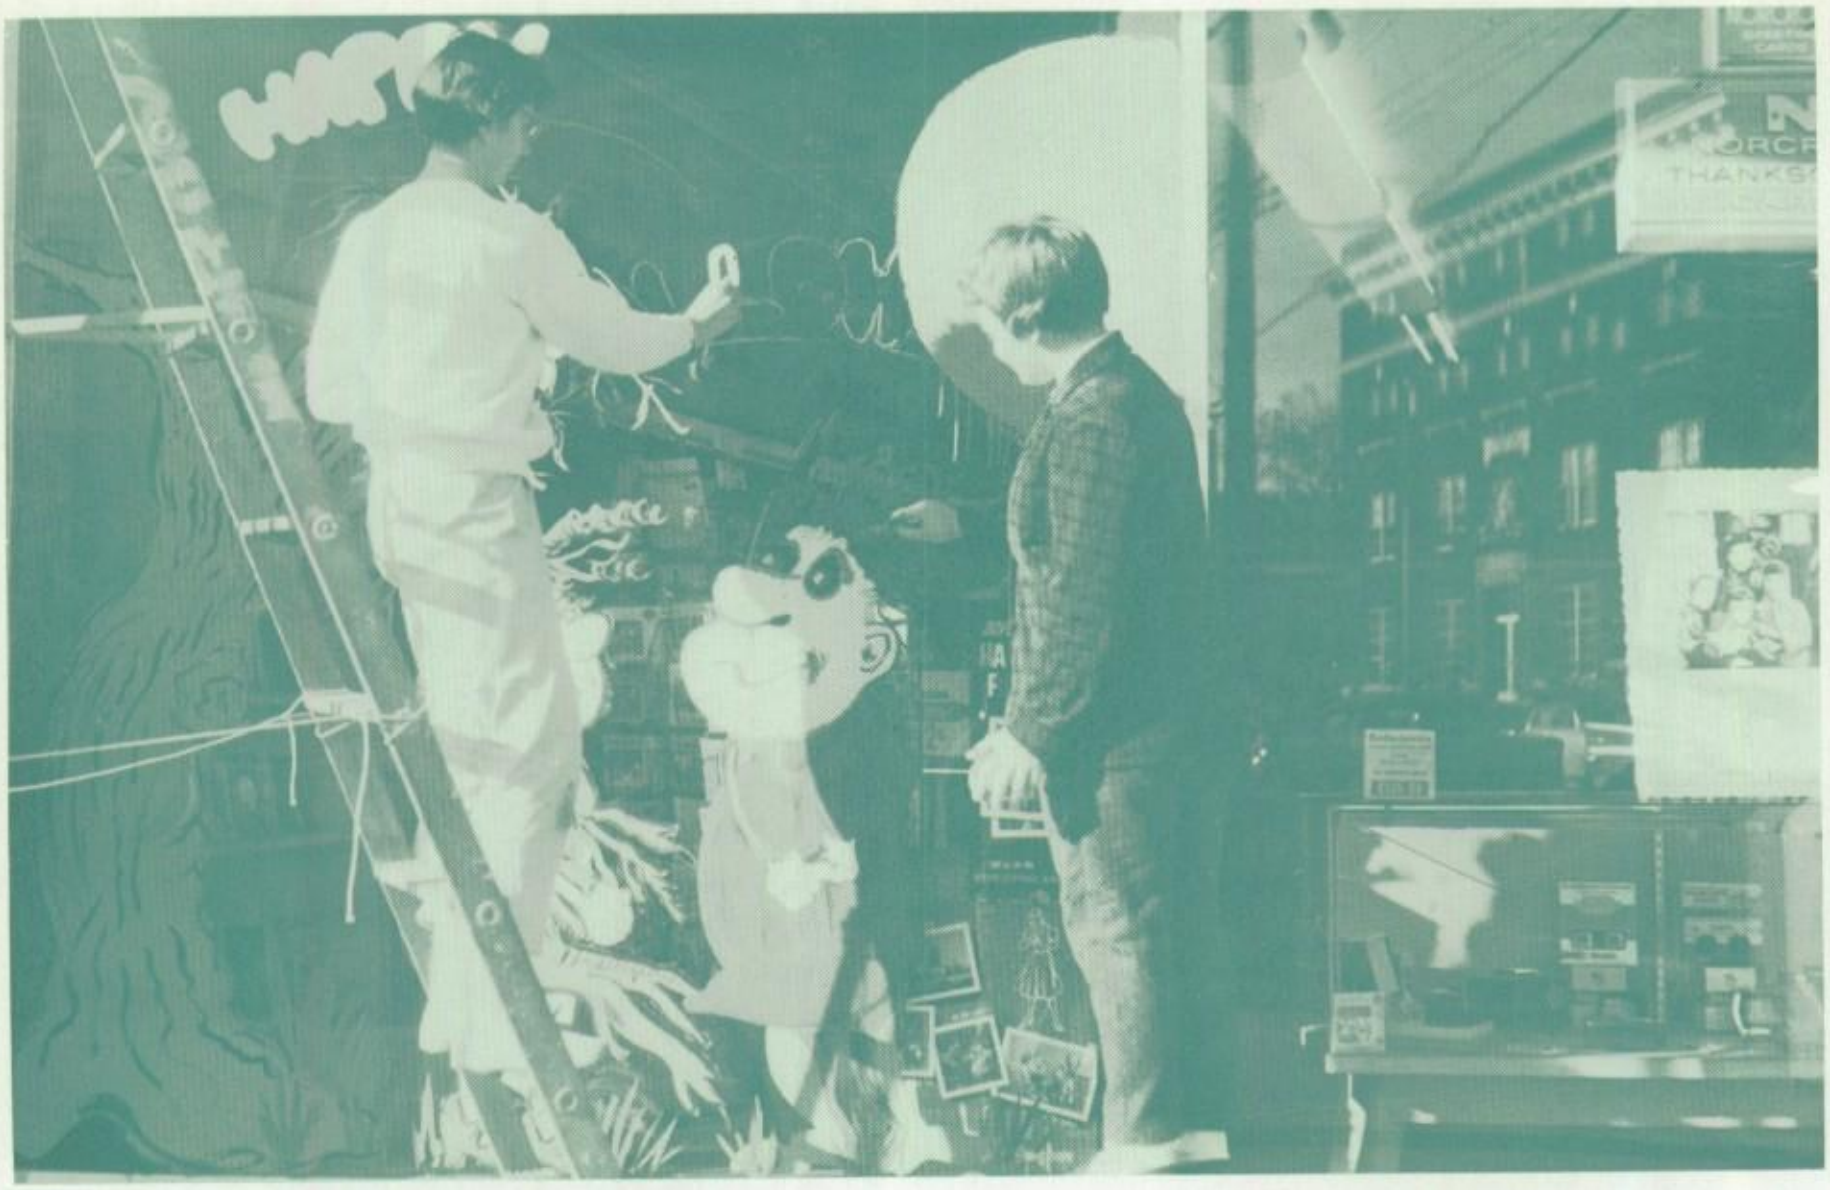
SCHOOL LIFE

Evidently a boy shortage — judging by the looks of the after-school dance sponsored by the Student Council.

College Night's a big night for those students interested in furthering their education. Mr. Cornell points out to Elaine Whitehouse the requirements for attending Edinboro.

"Amo, amas, ah-er"—that's as far as Francis can go in this Latin I class. Perhaps one of his eager friends will help him.



Carol Souzer and Rita Moran paint their way to a first prize award for the best over-all Halloween picture. The Halloween Window Painting Contest is sponsored each year by the Butler Board of Recreation.

Moving day? Larry Oppenheimer makes a good job of cleaning out someone's desk. Pure accident—but cleaning up took time, as he found out.

Back stage secrets—Carol Bauer paints a tree, Ed Kley holds the ladder, and cast members for "Curious Savage" hold a conference.

"Fight, team, fight! Fight, team, fight!" The cheerleaders use pep and spirit to do their part in scoring that winning touchdown.

"If I turn this around, drill that more, I'll be finished," says Mike Gregory as he creates a masterpiece in metal shop.

Rain or shine, win or lose, the Tornados always had an enthusiastic crowd of rooters on hand at the football games to watch them battle with the opponents.

Members of the band are really kicking up a dust as they practice in preparation for a year of playing and marching.

Joe, Frank, Bill, and Dick keep in top-notch shape for football games by attending after-school practices.

Kathy, Marianne, and Michele are really "fixing" this projector in the Visual Aides room. Thanks, girls. I'm sure it will work just fine now.

All hands on deck! The powerful students of the sophomore class gaze at their reflections in the glossy gym floor while doing push-ups.

Wow, a choice of two desserts today! Lunch time is probably the most enjoyed period of the day.

Ice cream, cookies, milk—these can all be had by students who visit the snack-bar.

Easy does it! DeCo Club members add finishing touches to the gay holiday decorations for which they are responsible each Christmas.

The members of the Visual Aides Crew practice the smiles that they will use when their picture is taken.

Mr. Halstead, County Register and Recorder, explains to Ruth Wallace, a participant in Youth and Government Day, the functions of his office. Other students visited various offices and also the court room.

The decorations were original—the floor was gleaming—the music was smooth—everyone had a grand time. That was Serenade by the Sea, the Senior Hop.

Every six weeks recruits gather at the supply room where they are loaded with materials. Don't they look as if they are about to overflow with enthusiasm for their task?

Jane is dressed to represent a real hillbilly as she sings "Pass the Biscuits, Mirandy," her act in the talent assembly put on by the girls contending for Senior Queen.

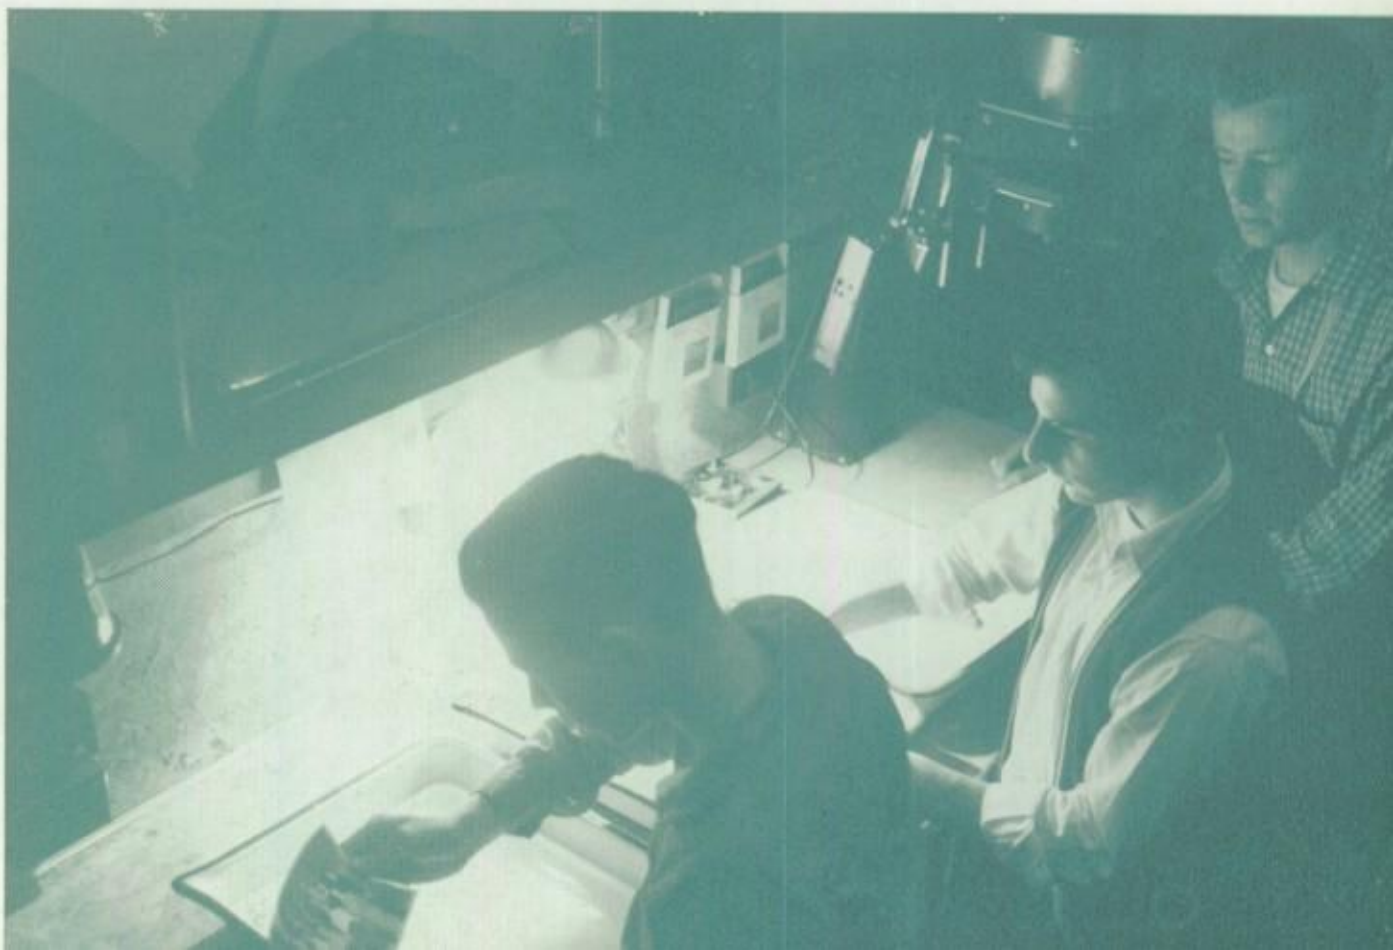
A number of the members of the school operetta "Damn Yankees" seriously study their scripts.

The members of FTA enjoy the "Little German Band" who played for various school activities.

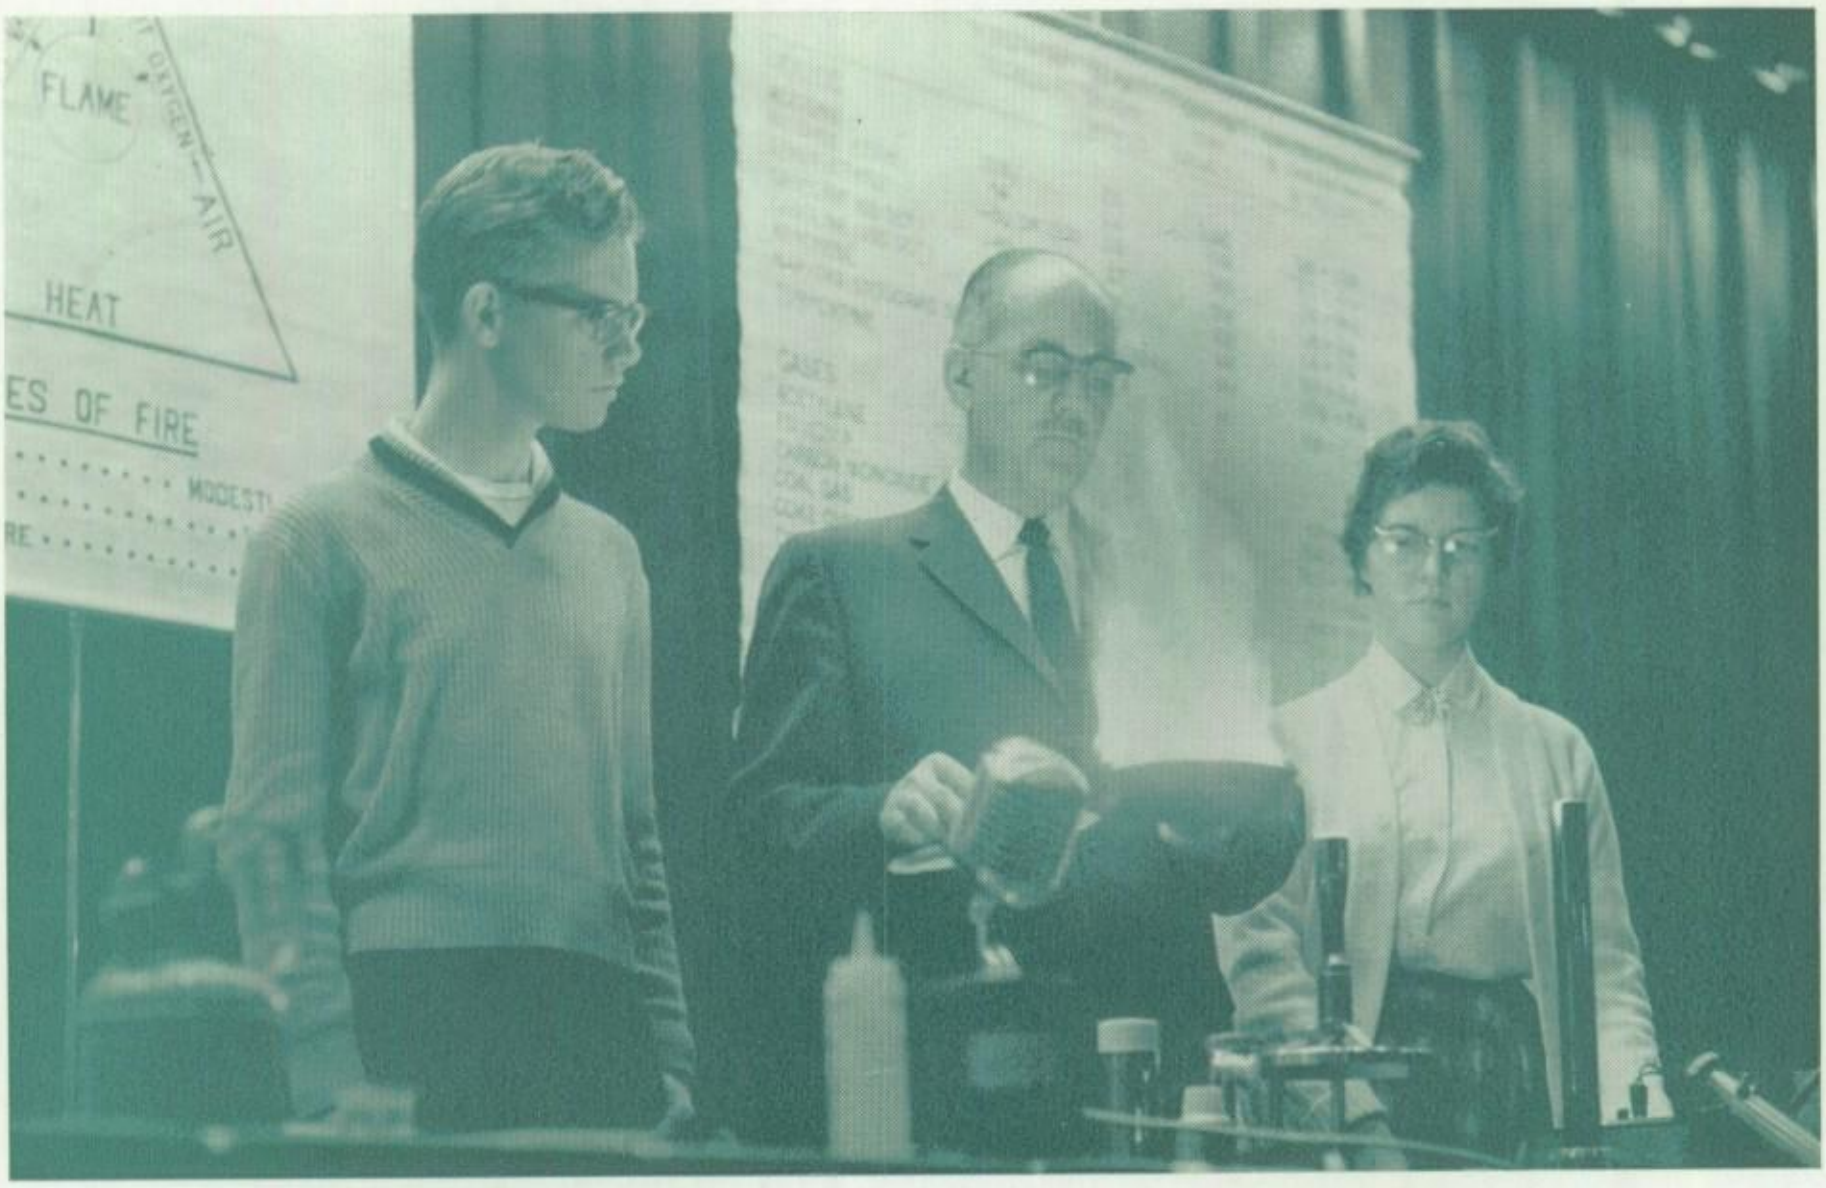
The students belonging to the Concert Choir put on their robes and warm up before presenting an assembly of Christmas music.

Keeping the school in top-notch shape is a big job. These men repair the cafeteria chairs.

What's this? Could it be that these boys are the future Varsity basketball players?



The dark room is a second home to Bill, Howard, and Joe. The photographers play a big part in the publication of both the newspaper and the yearbook.



Judging from the expressions on the faces of Bill Smith and Connie Chowning, we think they are very interested in Mr. Engel's lecture and demonstration on fire. Mr. Engel used fire as the theme of an assembly program.

"The Taming of the Shrew" and "The Merchant of Venice" were brought alive in assembly by Jack Rank.

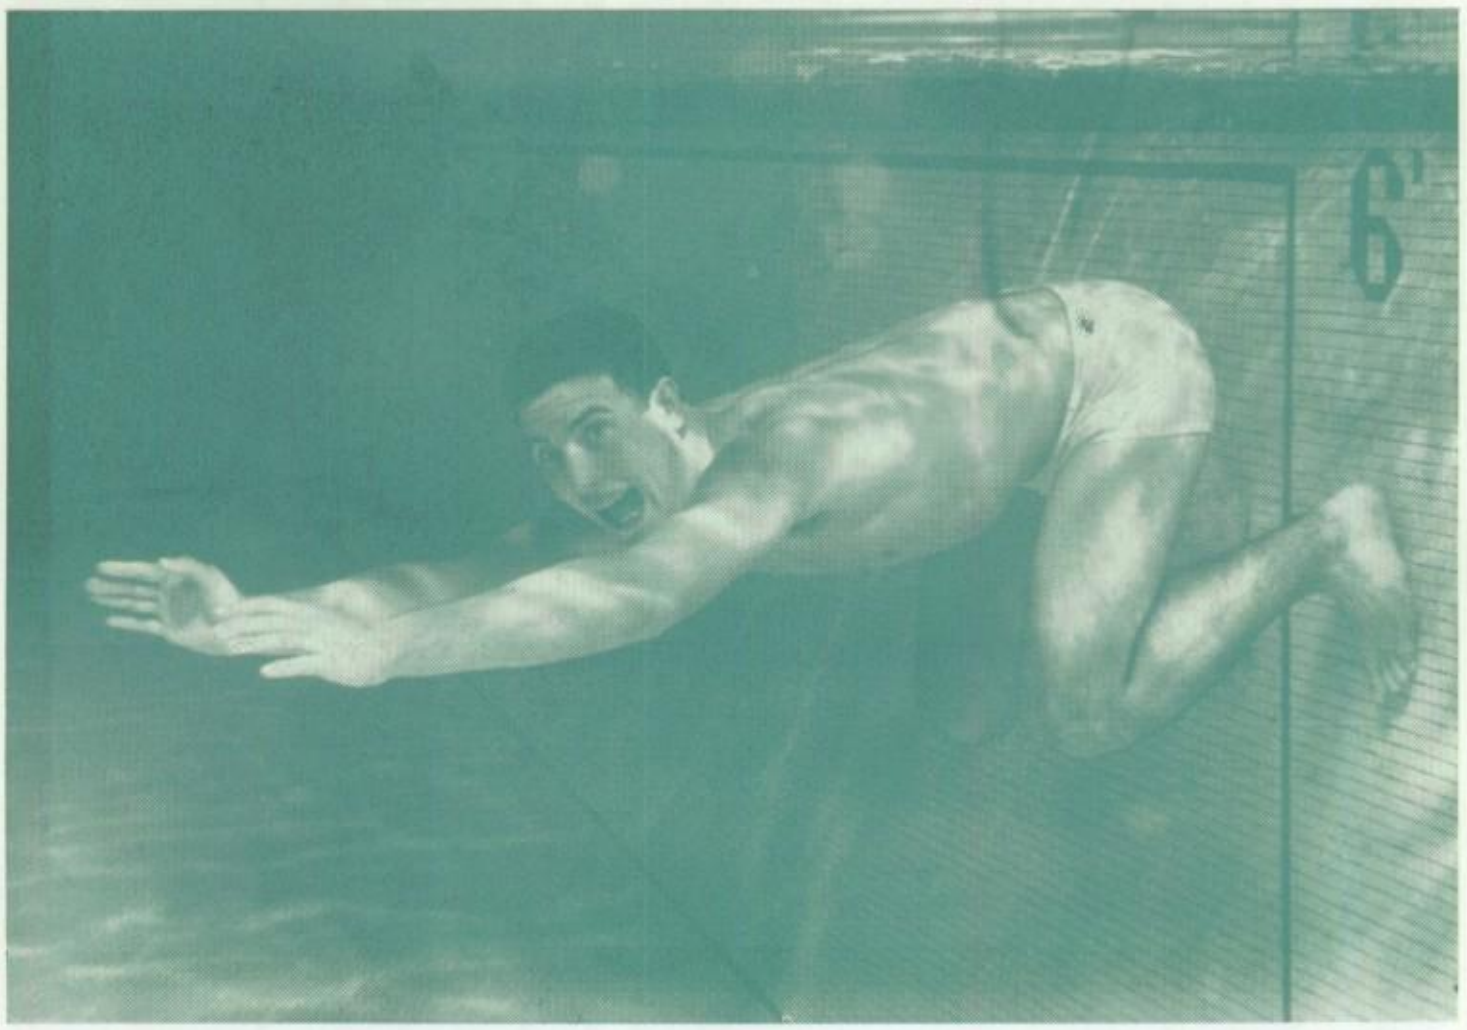
Ann McElhaney watches carefully as Barbara DeMask checks her braking reaction time in Drivers Ed Class.

This huge icicle clinging to the building was one of the many formed following the severe snow storm which closed the school for two days.

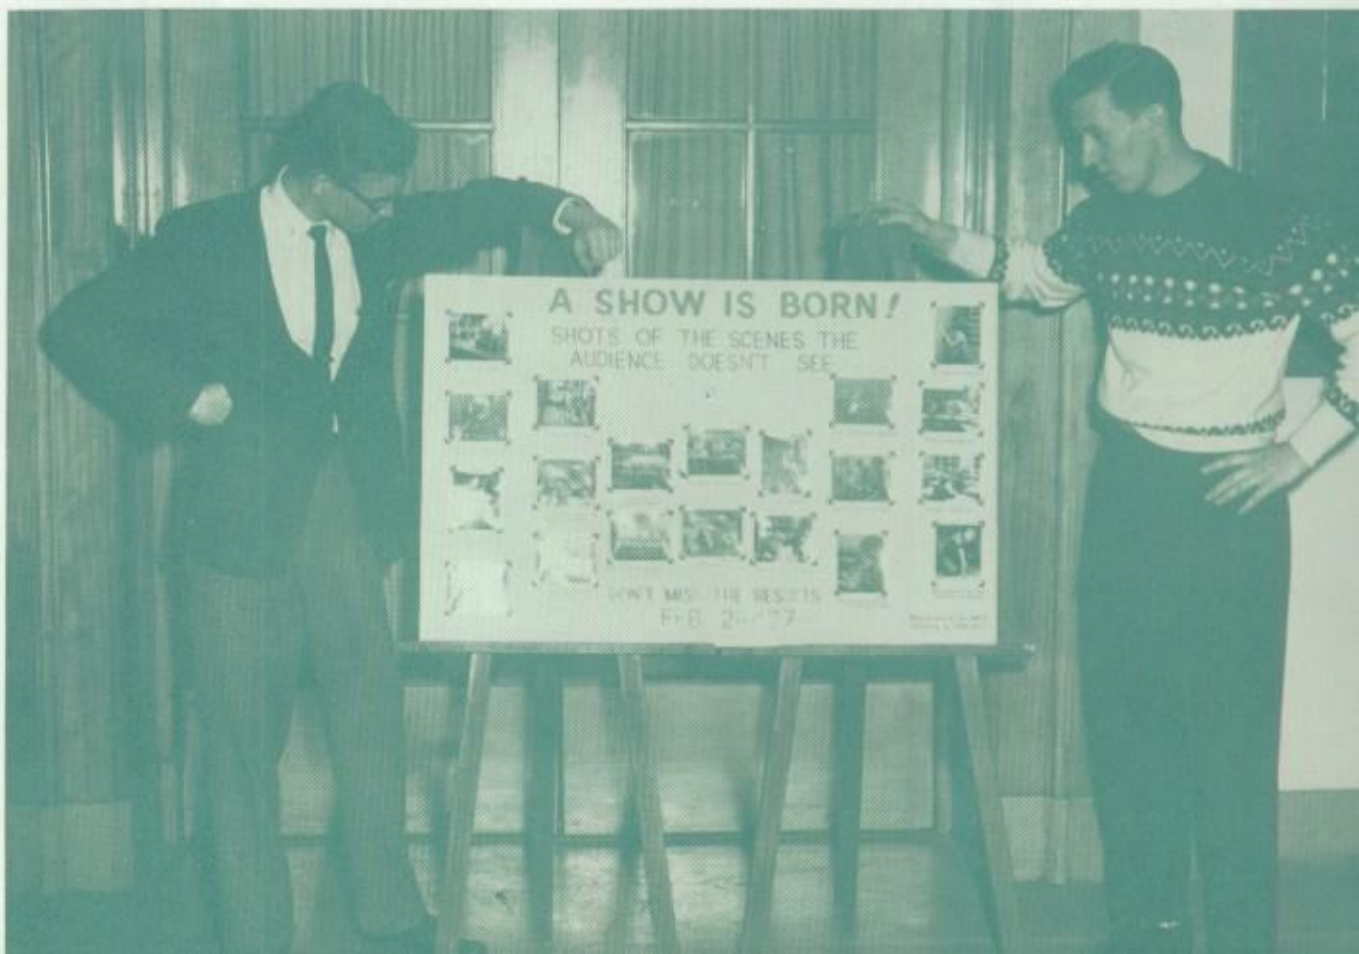
Nancy Troyan measures Ruth Yurkovich for her cap and gown to be sure that they will fit just right for the graduation exercises.

Mrs. Kerr presides at the beautifully decorated table as members of the faculty and their families enjoy themselves at the Faculty Christmas Party. Preceding the refreshments, each child was given a gift from Santa Claus.

The basketball team, on the way to a game, rests and worries about tonight's big clash.



Attention, biology students: Is this some new form of marine life found in the BHS swimming pool?



Bill Smith and Ed Kley demonstrate "how a show is born" by using a "Damn Yankees" poster.

"You've gotta have heart," sings Bill Smith as he tries to raise the spirit of the losing Senators in a scene from "Damn Yankees."

Jo Ellen Shaffer looks on while Barbara Segall presents Rich Stanko, winner of the Austerity Day Contest, his prize. The purpose of Austerity Day is to raise money for An Byong Kil, BHS Korean War orphan.

George Jankovich demonstrates his gymnastic ability and perfect form on the side-horse.

Dr. Dryden and Miss Jamison receive special service from the president of the Ushers Club, Karen Geisler.

A TEACHER'S YEARBOOK

When the end of your school career is near
And the pictured future is not too clear,
When the photo of life you're about to crop
Stop! And study its background.
There in the margin, or so it seems,
Are your former students
And their thousand-word themes.
You study the picture. Shall you make it bleed?
In the picture of life no friend shall secede.
Your work is heavy. It seems as dross.
But helping a student brings out the gloss.
Assignments are made and students groan
As they build up the screen for fine half-tone.
When the ink is applied and the proof is drawn,
When the look is given and you shout "One more."
It is drowned by a knock on 204
As a former student opens the door,
Thankful now that he worked to pass
As he sat in your College English class, Glad that there are those whose actions utter
"Let not this page bleed in the gutter."

The book is finished. The end sheets done.
But the work on the next one has just begun.
May you choose future pictures with a twinkling eye
Getting most out of life as the judges pass by
And when through your yearbook they are wont to scan
May we shout with them, "ALL AMERICAN."

Shirley, I've really enjoyed you as a classmate in my fifth study hall. Remember all the fun we had in here. Good luck in your senior year and in the future. Buena suerte!

To a real cute girl that I met in my study hall. I know you are always getting better grades than me -- & Tell me the formula. Loads of luck in the future

Señorita Esper,

It has been my pleasure to be friends with you, and to be in Spanish with you. Never forget our fun in Spanish, with Jimmy M. ; Jerry L. etc.

I was going to write this in Spanish, but for one thing I don't have enough time, and for another I can't think that good or that fast in it.

Continue being as nice as you are now, and everything good shall be yours.

Sincerely yours
Kathy (DORONDO)

To a real nice girl in my homeroom
Lots of good luck
in everything you do.
Sincerely,
(VERANO)

Always
I envy you
Pam. Pam
Pam. Pam you have an expression like Elaine. I wish you all the success in the world
Always be a friend

Dear Pam,
I am happy to have known you this year.
I hope you have a wonderful summer.
Good luck
Love,
Jimmy

Shirley,
A real sweet girl in English
Class. Never forget old Mary Jamison and her fib teeny-tabby around the room-talking everyone to about us.
Best of luck in the future.

Shirley
a really cute, sweet wonderful girl whose personality is tops. Remember our Friday study hall, & the times I got round, our great gyps & swimming classes too. Loads of luck in the future
An all you do. You deserve the best. Oh, don't forget to give the boys a break, this may be "it" Kind to animals week."

Love ya,
